LISTEN TO YOUR OWN VOICE. The Phonograph Makes Unpleasant Revedations at First. It is a very interesting feature of the phonograph that it "the giftie ri'es us" to hear "oursel's as of hear us.

We are apt to think that we know the sound of our own voices. This is a great mistake, as we soon find on hearing the machine for the first time repeat something that we have spoken People often say, "It is not in the least like my voice. I am sure I do not speak like that." But when friends all assert positively that the resemblance is perfect, there can be no reasonable doubt that their judgment is correct. The reason why we do not hear our own voices as they are heard by others is simple and obvious. The speaker's organs of hearing are, if we may so express it, in the same box as his vocal apparatus; his audience's ears are outside and apart from the box. Not only do the vibrations, which his voice sets up in the air, act upon his ears as upon those of his audience, but his tympanum receives other vibrations through the material substances of the

If we stop our ears with the fingers we can hear ourselves speaking distinctly, though we can not hear the voices of others in the same room. There is something unpleasant and uncanny in sitting down and listening to a speech in one's own voice, with every little accent, error and hesitation faithfully reproduced. But even the electric telegraph and the steam locomotive affected people in the same way, until the world grew accustomed to them. The miracle of row .- Tit-Bits. Traveled Three Thousand Miles to Dine. They are telling of a lady in New York who, on a visit to London some time ago, refused an offer of marriage from a young Englishman. On her return to this country she married one of her own countrymen. Recently she gave a dinner, and thought it would be a graceful compliment to send an invitation to her former admirer in London. She was amazed when he presented himself on the evening of the dinner, but this was nothing to her surprise when she subsequently learned that he had departed the following day for England, having taken the journey of nearly six thousand miles apparently to show that he could not be outdone in the compliment business .-Boston Herald.

you a job. Wiggley Waggle-Well, I'd like to take advantage o' yer offer, boss, but I see a man comin' up the road that looks as if he had a family to support, an' as I'm a bachelor I will resign in his favor .- Tit-Rits
